

TERM TALK

You look great and you're now at 37 weeks.

That means I'm full term, right?

Babies born at 37 and 38 weeks are now called early term, while babies born between 39 and 41 weeks are full term.

Actually the pregnancy terms have changed.

Research now shows that baby's brain, lungs, and liver continue developing in the womb between 37 and 39 weeks.

Why did it change? Isn't he just getting fatter those last few weeks?

Sounds like you have some work to do in there over the next couple weeks!

LEARN THE TERMS FOR THE HOME STRETCH.

<http://www.nichd.nih.gov/KnowYourTerms>

NATIONAL CHILD &
MATERNAL HEALTH
EDUCATION PROGRAM

Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development